

Marist Solidarity Cambodia Village

CAMBODIA

Transform our world
ONE STEP AT A TIME
2016

Samang*, 19, and students just like him can look forward to a an independent future because of the Marist Solidarity Cambodia Village project.

Samang graduated from the Marists' LaValla School – the only government-approved primary school in Cambodia for children with a physical disability.

Students like Samang will be offered supported living at the new village. Here he will live independently with other young people with disabilities.

Supported living means he can attend mainstream high school in Takhmao at one of the few high schools, which are modified for students with disabilities.

Samang will also learn to produce vegetables on a small-scale farm at the village. This will provide food as well as a small income.

This new journey will open up pathways to university and tertiary education that were never possible for Samang.

When Samang leaves the village, he will have the skills and knowledge to live independently.

The Marist Centre for Migrants

THAILAND

Transform our world
ONE STEP AT A TIME
2016

These Burmese migrant students at the Marist Migrant Centre receive an education that is not available to them in regular schools.

Samut Sakhon is one hour drive from Bangkok. It has many fish processing factories where workers receive low pay in poor conditions.

Migrants from Burma cross the Thai border to work in these factories as they have no other options. Without an education their children have no choice but to do the same.

The Marist Centre provides education for migrant children. It focusses on those denied access to the Thai education system.

On weekdays, Burmese curriculum is taught so students can continue their studies if they are able to return to Burma in the future.

Lessons also include basic Thai language, to assist with learning if they are accepted by Thai schools in the future.

On Sundays, Thai, English and computer classes are available for young adults to improve their employment opportunities.

Let's make this happen today!

Uai-Lili Carpentry Training Program

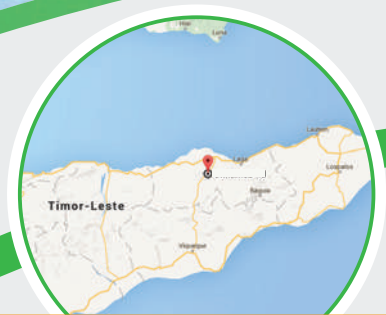

TIMOR-LESTE

Transform our world
ONE STEP AT A TIME
2016

After successfully establishing the computer training program, Maway now has his eyes set on a new carpentry program.

Uai-Lili is a small village 10km from Baucau with few opportunities for young people to access education in order to gain work.

Uai-Lili was a dangerous village to visit. As the young people had very little to do they would throw rocks at the visitors.

Because of this Maway started the computer training centre and now a carpentry program where young people strive to learn each day.

The young people of Uai-Lili now have the opportunity to be trained by local carpenters so that they can find skilled work that pays well.

The students' skills are tested and on successful completion they are awarded a certificate and can seek work with local tradesmen.

Once they are trained, these young men and women can use their skills at home or to work in order to better support their families.

Let's make this happen today!
